Experience

Itch, Leeds — Web Developer

October 2019 - October 2020

During my time at Itch I was taught how to use the MVC .Net framework to build web pages. I worked on both the backend and frontend of the website. I made good use of this time, honing the programming skills I had developed at university.

Algorithmics, Cascais — Teacher

February 2023 - December 2023

I very much enjoyed working as a teacher. I believe the skills I developed during this time will carry throughout my life, wherever my career might take me. The Algorithmics philosophy is to recognize and respond to students' individual needs and learning styles. With this in mind I was able to create an engaging classroom environment.

Deliveroo, Leeds — Delivery rider

June 2015 - September 2015

As a delivery rider, I honed my time management, customer service, and problem-solving skills by handling multiple orders, addressing customer inquiries and complaints professionally, and navigating challenges such as adverse weather conditions. Additionally, I improved my physical stamina through the demands of fast-paced delivery work.
